Canadians visit key Kouga tourist attractions

Executive Kouga Mayor, Horatio Hendricks, hoped to make the most of the opportunity to build the municipality's capacity to support community development programmes. Activities during the Canadian visit were geared towards enhancing service delivery to entrepreneurs, plus to ensure new and innovative LED approaches, especially for women and vulnerable groups.

There was also a three-day LED workshop for stakeholders, facilitated by Prince Edward County. This workshop highlighted project management, knowledge management, LED strategies, tourism assets, inventory management and community consultation strategies.

The Canadians and some Kouga officials visited a number of key sites in Kouga which have potential to stimulate economic development and investment, including the historic 140 year-old Seal Point Lighthouse in Cape St Francis. Edited by Bev Mortimer
